Dear Mr. Puls and Mr. O'Brien,

I have heard from my constituents regarding the ongoing contract negotiations between 5,000 workers at 12 Anheuser-Busch breweries across the country, including 465 workers in Missouri's First Congressional District, and Anheuser-Busch over a new collective bargaining agreement.

As you know, it is the policy of the United States to encourage collective bargaining between workers and their employers to negotiate the terms of their employment under the National Labor Relations Act. Accordingly, I hope that a fair solution can be reached in these negotiations between Anheuser-Busch and my constituents. As the Member of Congress representing the St. Louis Brewery, I know how essential these workers are to our community, as well as the importance of job security for my constituents to ensure they can care for their families and plan for retirement. Furthermore, local businesses rely on the spending power of a steady and consistent customer base.

I respectfully urge all parties to work to ensure compliance with the law, bargain in good faith, and move toward a timely and fair resolution.

Thank you for your attention to this important matter.

Sincerely,
